ABOUT THE PROJECT

We Act gathers a mix of sport organisations to join efforts in transnational cooperation to face local/regional challenges of women integration, applying education through sport ethodology. The project will bring the EU dimension to local level; the development of social integration model for inclusion and diversity of women with fewer opportunities; the knowledge-building, increase of work quality and transfer of best practices among sport and non-sport organizations; the awareness raising and increase of participation in sport of vulnerable women.

Co-funded by the European Union

WHAT WE ARE TO DO?

The We Act 4 partners, supported by associated entities will implement transnational and national activities, structured in 3 work packages will deliver 13 outputs (such as data set, set of good practices, toolbox, website, social media, promotional material, 4 multiplier events.

WHO WILL GAIN FROM WE ACT

- 20 coaches/trainers,
- 80 marginalised women
- 200 stakeholders from BG, ES, FR and NL
- 3200 indirect beneficiaries will be reached through the planned dissemination channels and follow-up.
- Everyone interested in social inclusion

IN BLUE DELFT WE BEGAN OUR STORY – THE KICK OFF MEETING

We met in Delft, NL to plan and start our activities. The meeting was hosted by SBG on 11th and 12th July 2022. During these days, the partners met and set the grounds for the coming work. A general discussion of the topic 'social inclusion' was initiated with the emphasize of the sport. We planned carefully the next steps of the project, so that all partners can continue with the mapping of the countries status quo, gathering the best practices and consult the trainers.

We agreed on the first output content and deadlines. We Act project partners will developtraining units on social integration model using Education Through Sport & Edition of Trainer's Toolbox "Vulnerable women integration through sport" . The toolbox will consist of 4 training units and of compendium of best practices.
Dissemination project channels were discussed and tasks agreed.
Finally, the partners discussed the coming activities

THE TOPIC OF THE NEWSLETTER DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Violence in the world has unfortunately always been and continues to be a phenomenon with a painful character in human relationships and everyday life. It crosses all boundaries - social, religious, economic, ethnic and racial. One of its most terrible manifestations is when it is directed against the weaker and defenceless - women and children. Violence can take many forms, from behavior bordering on indifference and neglect, to economic violence, verbal abuse, psychological and emotional abuse, to physical abuse and sexual violence. The most common possible scenarios when violence is said, most people imagine severe, physical or sexual violence, but this is not always the case. People rarely realize that economic coercion, controlling behavior - when you are held to account what time you get home, what you did today, who you went out with - is also violence. In this regard, there are different patterns, variations and scenarios of violence concerning the members of a family.

25 November is the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women. The day was first observed in 1999 by a UN resolution. According to statistics, one in two women in the world is a victim of intimate partner violence and one in five is subjected to or threatened with sexual violence. Women around the world are subject to violence, and the extent and true nature of this problem often remain hidden. The EU also falls into the negative statistics regarding the prevalence of domestic violence, despite the policies adopted both at Union level and in individual Member States. One in three women in the European Union has suffered physical or sexual violence at least once in her lifetime, according to the European Agency for Fundamental Rights.
Many partners are united to eliminate violence - agencies, civil society, the media, local communities.

PROJECT WE ACT IS JUST A SMALL STEP TOWARDS CREATING A SAFE ENVIRONMENT THROUGH SPORT.
